KY Hanewich was born in rural southern Ontario and started painting at the age of 14. A degree in fine arts from the University of Waterloo and attending Art's Sake Inc. in Toronto in 1981 provided the foundation for her oil on canvas painting. Her work has been shown in the University of Waterloo Gallery, Gallery Stratford, and the Robert McLaughlin Gallery. Her work is in collections in North America, Europe, and Japan. Currently, Kim works after the colourist tradition from her log studio/home at the southwest edge of Algonquin Provincial Park. See her work online: www.geocities.com/kimhanewich.
