ILONA WENEK-ZIEMBA

Asylbewerber Aus Polen (2)*

I too have my Berlin my Berlin it's the nightmares from the drawings of Kathe Kolwitz it's a holy picture upside-down a telephone booth in flames the clanging of chains and Breakfast On The Street

my Berlin it's escaping with a Polish passport in my pocket at the sound of police car sirens it's the naked bodies of thin girls and the roar of tam-tams in Victoriapark it's craters in the sidewalks by the coloured wall and a profaned Pope in an art gallery Kreuzberg the memento of pink hair that lies to the East of me

* The title translates to English as “Refugee Claimant from Poland.”

Notes:
“Kathe Kolwitz” – German expressionist painter
“Breakfast On The Street” – anarchist demonstration I witnessed in West Berlin “Victoriapark” – green area in Kreuzberg “Kreuzberg” – a very special part of former West Berlin, populated mostly by anarchists, punks, German army defectors, and immigrants
